

Doyle Canning

Doyle Canning doesn't wait to solve problems. As a childhood survivor of domestic violence, Canning has committed her life to fighting for a better system than the one that failed her family. As a community organizer, attorney, progressive policy strategist and nonprofit founder, Canning has stood up to billionaires, big polluters, Wall Street banks and the politicians they pay for. When the pandemic hit, she fought in Congress to ensure essential workers had fair pay and paid sick leave. When a foreign energy giant threatened to bulldoze southern Oregon for their pipeline, Canning went to work, organized the opposition, and helped win the end of Jordan Cove. She led the nation's first successful campaign defeating chemical giant Monsanto, and spent 20 years shaping environmental policy; she has every environmental endorsement in this election.

Canning is unbought and unafraid and is committed to never taking cash from the fossil fuel industry, billionaires, Amazon lobbyists or big Pharma. Canning is a staunch LGBTQ+, racial justice and reproductive rights advocate and proven progressive Democrat. In Congress, she will work for you to lead on the climate crisis, pass Medicare-for-All, deliver housing solutions and bring good paying jobs to Oregon.
